

AEG SD 14

Model description:

The starting element is using an overcurrent detection element.

The models provide 3 distance characteristics (impedance circle with centre in the RX origin), a backup overcurrent element controlled by the directional characteristic and a backup overcurrent element driven by the starting element only.

The elliptical characteristic of the SD14X isn't supported.